PETITIONERS SUPPLEMENTAL SUBMISSION IN FURTHER SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION FOR SANCTIONS

Comments In Response to AT&T's Jan 10th 2007 FCC Comments

Dear FCC Staff

Petitioners seriously doubted AT&T would respond to petitioners Jan. 2nd filing. Even AT&T now understands that it should have never filed its Dec 13th 2007 comments because the attempt to cover the "former customer" tariff analysis just led to further AT&T interpretation absurdity.

Funny how 13 years later AT&T tries to explain what "former customer" means, when for 13 years AT&T did all it could to DOT DOT DOT (...) everyone's attention away---replacing "former customer" with "transferor," existing", and "original." Sure AT&T we are all pawns in your game.

AT&T just could not explain the major holes that petitioners pointed out in AT&T's "former customer" interpretation of 2.1.8. AT&T is forced to rest its case actually asserting that its "former customer" interpretation defines the former customer as the Customer is correct.

Imagine AT&T actually believing that the FCC will buy AT&T's analysis that asserts "former customers" who transferred their plans away are still actually AT&T customers!!! Absurdity!

AT&T's 2.1.8 interpretation exhibited within its produced Transfer of Service Agreement (TSA) showing the phrase "specified above" in reference to the obligations only pertaining to what is designated for transfer supposedly means nothing too? AT&T can't even offer a cover-up. What an absolute insult to the Commissions intelligence AT&T has perpetrated on the Commission.

Petitioners have a very short 2-3 page summary that it will submit probably by Tuesday/Wednesday, but see no need to file anything other than that. There has been so much filed that petitioners will simply recap the major holes in AT&T's post 2005 2.1.8 interpretation.
